POLICE SEEK DENIAL OF WOMAN'S IDENTITY

DEFOUNCE ARREST OF CHILDREN

Charlestown People Call Use of Patrol Wagon in Riordan
Case an "Outrage."

WERE DENIED BREAKFAST

Charlestown people boiled with indignation today at the "Riordan outrage," as they called it.
Five innocent children were dragged from their beds at 6 o'clock in the morning. Without being allowed time for breakfast they were hauled through the streets in a police patrol wagon.
The only thing charged against these five, frightened, crying boys and girls was that they had been "neglected."
The way the children were yanked out of their bed and home at such a needlessly early hour is bad enough, in the eyes of any decent person.
But the use of a patrol wagon is regarded as sheer police brutality.
IT WAS ONLY RECENTLY THAT THE SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO CHILDREN, STIRRED BY PROTEST OVER A SIMILAR CASE IN SOMERVILLE, VOTED TO PAY THE EXPENSES OF A PRIVATE "CARRIAGE" IN CASE THIS POLICE HAD NOTHING BUT A PATROL WAGON TO USE FOR "NEGLECTED CHILDREN."
Hardly has the Somerville agitation grown cold when the Charlestown police take five children from their home to the police station in a patrol wagon.
The police knew of the Somerville case.

HERE IS PORTER CHARLTON

Accused wife-slayer, who was aboard boat in Boston today on his way to stand trial in Italy.

Submit to Courts, Says Sulzer

CHARLTON HERE, OFF FOR TRIAL

Porter Charlton, accused wife-slayer, who is being taken to Italy to stand trial, has received assurances in which he places deep faith that he will escape with only a light sentence at the hands of the Italian authorities, according to a report in circulation today on the steamer He d'Italia, on which Charlton is making the voyage across.
The He d'Italia, leaving New York yesterday, put to sea at this port today to take on passengers and freight. It docked at noon at the Homer Tunnel docks, Charlestown, and steamed down the harbor again at 4 o'clock, having taken on 100 Boston passengers for the Mediterranean.
From his "private dock" Charlton leisurely surveyed the harbor and water front while he smoked cigarettes with utmost nonchalance.
To all outward appearance, Charlton is the least worried person aboard the steamer. He has wisely recovered his nerve, after the breakdown which came on his leaving New York yesterday.
Those on the dock when the He d'Italia came in saw on a short raised deck at the stern of the vessel three figures. They had this little deck to themselves. One was Charlton, the others his guards from the Royal Italian Carabinieri.
Charlton wore a gray suit, and an evening shirt, with soft collar. He was bareheaded.
His guards were dressed in citizens' clothes. They did not seem worried about their charge, any more than he was about them. Charlton walked in and on the little deck and his guards did the same. Sometimes they were on the same side of the ship, sometimes on opposite sides.

GLYNN DEMANDS OFFICE

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Governor William Sulzer, implicitly refused to give up the reins of government or recognize Lieutenant-Governor Martin H. Glynn as Acting Governor pending the impeachment trial on September 18.
Mr. Glynn delivered his ultimatum to the Governor and insisted on Sulzer vacating the office. His letter was as follows:
State of New York, Lieutenant-Governor's room, Albany, August 15, 1913.
Hon. William Sulzer, Albany:
Sir: In the performance of the duty which has devolved upon me by article 4, section 8, of the Constitution, I officially demand that you deliver and surrender to me as Acting Governor during the period of your constitutional disability in act as Governor, the use, possession and occupancy of the executive chamber and offices, and that you likewise deliver and surrender to me the executive petty seal of the State of New York, and also all books, papers, records and documents in said chamber or offices or in your charge, possession or custody relating to or in any way connected with or pertaining to the executive department. The bearer hereto is authorized to receive your answer to this communication. Respectfully,
MARTIN H. GLYNN,
Acting Governor.
Governor Sulzer's Reply:
In reply Governor Sulzer said: State of New York, Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., 1913.
Hon. Martin H. Glynn, Lieutenant-Governor, Albany, N. Y.:
Sir:—Years of August 15, demanding that I deliver and surrender to you, as acting Governor, the use, possession and occupancy of the executive chamber and offices, and that I likewise deliver and surrender to you the executive petty seal of the State of New York and also all documents, papers and records in said chamber or offices or elsewhere in my charge, possession or custody, relating to or in any way connected with or pertaining to the executive department.
In response thereto I decline to recognize you as acting Governor of the State, and decline to deliver to you the use, possession and occupancy of the executive chamber and offices or in any way to comply with the demands and requests in your letter.
I shall continue to exercise and discharge the constitutional duties of the Governor of the State of New York; first, among other reasons, because I am advised that the Assembly at its present extraordinary session possessed and possesses no power or authority to prefer articles of impeachment, and, secondly, be-

Weeks May Support the Currency Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—President Wilson is stated over the progress of the currency bill within the past twenty-four hours. The material effect of his announcement has been so marked that it is expected that the bill will go through speedily after the disposal of the tariff bill. It is known that the vote in the House will be so overwhelming in its favor that the minority in the Senate will not resort to any serious filibustering against it. Senator Weeks of Massachusetts and other Republican leaders have taken the ground that it would be good politics for the minority to support some of the most important features of the bill.

DROWNING MYSTERY IN HARBOR

Boston Lawyer Believes Victim May Be Missing Lynn Woman.

"P" IS ON HANDKERCHIEF

The body of a little woman, about forty years old, lies today in a Hingham undertaking room. About that body hangs one of the strangest sea mysteries Boston Harbor has seen in years.
The body was found floating on the north side of Salt Island. All efforts to identify the woman have failed. She was fully clothed. Death was due to drowning, whether by suicide, accident or murder is not known.
But the police have been unable to determine the answers to the two prime questions in the mystery:
1—Did she commit suicide—or was she thrown overboard from some harbor boat?
2—Who is she?

LOLA MORRIS CONFESES HER STORY ABOUT RENO BUNGALOW AT TRIAL OF MARY JIGGS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—Lola Morris resumed the witness stand today to further substantiate the story of infatuation and elopement from Sacramento to a Reno bungalow told by Martha Washington in the trial of Mary Jiggs for violation of the Mann white slave law.

The defense expects to open its case this afternoon. It is believed that the cross-examination of Miss Morris will be completed by noon.

Before she met Cammelt she had been a respectable girl, she said, and had done nothing of which to be ashamed until after the end of her stay in Reno. Cammelt, she testified, was aware of this, and had admitted it to her, relating his plan of marriage. She said she had told her it would be easy for him to get a divorce in Reno.

The judge asked her whether Cammelt had ever given her ground for believing that he really cared for her, and with the only break in her voice during the trying day she said he had offered blood and crossed her, and declared that she would be happy only when he was able to marry her.

Hysterical on Stand.
She asserted that Cammelt had made her drunk with champagne in Jiggs' office in Sacramento and she had then been abducted.

She became nearly hysterical when Special United States District Attorney Roche asked her to make the statement. She began to tremble, tried to steady herself, failed, and then, sobbing, said: "I cannot—cannot answer that."

But in the end she did, relating her story under control in a painful silence, with Cammelt and Jiggs sitting beside her, their faces pale with sympathy, with Roche and his associates waiting to give the girl time to recover herself with Justice Van Fleet looking toward the girl as though he would like to say something to comfort her—an impulse which his position demanded that he restrain.

Saved for that moment Miss Morris gave a more capable witness than Miss Washington in that she gave her answers in clear, even tones; her tears were checked nearly always and her replies were as courteous and significant as they did not need repetition.

She, too, testified that the girls had gone to Reno with Jiggs and Cammelt because they loved the men and had been convinced marriage when the latter were divorced, that the men assured them of this outcome and had frightened them with threats of exposure in their home city that would make life unbearable in their family environment.

Asked for Introduction.
Miss Morris, who is eighteen, said she had met Cammelt while she was employed in the California State Library at Sacramento, and that Cammelt had asked her to introduce Miss Washington to him because Jiggs desired to meet her.

She admitted that she had known that Cammelt was married, but that he had frequently told her his life with his wife was most unhappy. He had said frequently, she testified, that he and his wife were to separate.

"Do you remember," asked Mr. Roche, "that the four of you either went in a road house in Stockton called the 'Red Hellsberg'?"

"Yes," she replied.
Q.—Did anything wrong occur there?
A.—No.

Q.—In your trips in Jiggs' automobile did you ever ask them to stop for drinks?
A.—No.

Q.—How many times were you in the office of Jiggs in Sacramento?
A.—Possibly eight or seven.

Q.—Did Cammelt ever make any promises regarding his affection for you in the presence of Jiggs?
A.—He told me the love and Judge Van Fleet.—Did he not let his arms around you or embrace you?

A.—Yes.

Q.—How did you hear the plan of leaving Sacramento the first time and what did you think of it?
A.—Mr. Jiggs telephoned and asked me if I was going. I did not think he was in earnest.

In Fear of Arrest.
Q.—Tell some of the details of the stories told by Jiggs as to why you should go away.
A.—Well, he said there were warrants out for our arrest, and that their wives knew all about us and probably would use us for attention of girlfriends and name us as co-respondents in divorce suits. He said a number of policemen had been called with keys all about us and that his attorney, Mr. Barlow, had advised them to get out of town and take the girls with them. He said he was paying Mr. Barlow large sums of money every day for his advice.

Q.—At first you told Jiggs you would not leave Sacramento, why did you change your mind?
A.—They finally convinced Miss Washington and me it was the only thing to do. I said I did not see how my mother could stand the shock. Mr. Jiggs said I must get over it. It's only bullies that tell them. You suppose your parents would rather have you stay away than here when all this scandal and disgrace come out?

Nature's Own Wrapper Keeps Tobacco Best
The Natural Leaf Wrapper is valued highly because it enables the manufacturer to give you the freshest—sweetest—coolest tobacco for your pipe.

In Master Workman Tobacco all the natural moisture, on which the natural flavor of the leaf depends, is retained, because all the moisture and sweetness of the leaf is pressed into the plug and kept there by Nature's own package—the natural leaf wrapper.

Sliced or granulated tobacco must be inferior to Master Workman Plug, because any chopped-up tobacco must lose its moisture and flavor—become dry—burn fast and smoke hot. That's why all such chopped up tobaccos bite your tongue.

If you want a slow-burning—cool—sweet smoke, get a plug of Master Workman today and whittle off a fresh pipeful. That first smoke will show you.

Nature's Own Wrapper Keeps Tobacco Best
The Natural Leaf Wrapper is valued highly because it enables the manufacturer to give you the freshest—sweetest—coolest tobacco for your pipe.

In Master Workman Tobacco all the natural moisture, on which the natural flavor of the leaf depends, is retained, because all the moisture and sweetness of the leaf is pressed into the plug and kept there by Nature's own package—the natural leaf wrapper.

Sliced or granulated tobacco must be inferior to Master Workman Plug, because any chopped-up tobacco must lose its moisture and flavor—become dry—burn fast and smoke hot. That's why all such chopped up tobaccos bite your tongue.

If you want a slow-burning—cool—sweet smoke, get a plug of Master Workman today and whittle off a fresh pipeful. That first smoke will show you.

Make Beds in Open Air to Escape Heat
Great Suffering in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma: Crops Destroyed.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 15.—Unique schemes have been adopted by many residents of this city to escape the heat during the hot nights which have prevailed for more than two weeks. Scores of wealthy families on the South side, at night, start for the country in their motor cars. When they come to an elevated spot where the prospect of a breeze seems to get out, make their beds in the open, and sleep there until driven back home by morning sun.

The twelfth day of the season at Knickerbocker, Missouri, and Oklahoma finds the early crops practically destroyed. The suffering of the inhabitants is intense.

SAYS HORNS ON MOSES SHOW M. ANGELO CUBIST

Michael Angelo—It now appears, was a Cubist.

House Museum. The House Editor was deluged with letters today on the subject. "Why has Moses horns?" was the question a little boy asked Mrs. Mary Cronin, who was showing a party of children through the Art Museum. They had stopped in front of Michael Angelo's statue of Moses.

Mrs. Cronin didn't know. The House Editor intervened, to find out. He has received thus far some scores of answers, all declared to be strictly correct.

Twists of Hair.
It is Dr. F. B. Gould of Portsmouth, N. H., who gives the oldest answer. He says:

Michael Angelo gave to Moses with horns because horns are the Aryan symbol of power and victory. Incidentally he furnishes us with an early illustration of the cubist influence in sculpture. The horns are in reality twists of hair, but they are so twisted as to suggest the symbol I have named.

Harriet L. Woodworth of No. 41 State street says:

Moses owes his horns to an error in translation. Into the Greek, or from the Greek, I don't remember why. The Rev. William Hyde, rector of Trinity Church at Worcester, gives three pages to a thorough explanation of the mystery. Summarized, his answer is this:

Moses has horns because of an error in the translation of the Hebrew word "Keren," which means both "light" and "horns." The original version said "light came from his face," but the translators made it horns came from his face.

Recognized Symbols.
Horns were the more readily accepted as an attribute of Moses because they are recognized symbols of power and authority and glory.

One translator going into detail, said his face was radiant and dispersed beads. The many horns or combs about his head. This is another authority for Michael Angelo's horns.

The fact remains that Moses has horns and that horns have no business on a man. The House Editor will back up the fact why Moses has horns. And the House Editor also writes to you. If there's a more beautiful knee in sculpture than that of Moses.

MISS MADELINE M. DALTON of Arlington, who will wed James Vitelli of Boston, after a romance begun in a sheriff's office.

Madeline M. Dalton, niece of Deputy Sheriff Walker, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Dalton, of No. 34 Bow street, Arlington, is to be married on Wednesday to James A. Vitelli, a Boston attorney associated with the law offices of James H. Valley, of No. 8 John A. Andrew street, Jamaica Plain. Mr. Vitelli is a graduate of the Boston University Law School, class of 1911. Their romance dated from a meeting in her uncle's office.

The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's parents, and the bride will be attended by Miss Edith Long. The best man will be Lee Dutton, brother of the bride.

Just a Few Political Zephyrs

Some say "ish ka bibble." Others remark, "I should worry." Governor Foss prefers, "Say, isn't this a great day?"

It's a handy thing, this weather. For example:

"Naturally, are you a candidate?" "Great weather, Old Boy."

"What ticket are you on?" "The one that will win."

"I hear they withdrew your invitation to that Worcester picnic?" "It wasn't a fine day for August."

Once there was a little boy who could play marbles like a wizard. "Bullying," "Fooling 'em," or any other game—didn't matter at all.

After three successive games in the course of which this boy had won practically all the marbles in circulation, the loss expert boys in the game remarked:

"No, sir, you can't play any more; they said. Then the wizard took their marbles away."

MORAL: It's the weather for politics.

Republicans don't know whether they dare invite Governor Cox to their gathering or not. They didn't do so last year. Heretofore they have invited him to the Worcester Convention. But then Governor changed his mind and said, "I didn't either say you could come."

There are five candidates for Governor in the State street a man was trying to get a lot on some place the night. This is the way he stated his odds:

One to fifty on Walsh.
One to twenty on Gardner.
One to ten on Foss, if he runs.

Of course, he didn't know any more about it than the rest of us.

Reason Hill Dialogues. Number One. Lieutenant-Governor Walsh—I am a candidate to the end. Foss—let me be plain. What right has he got to run with them?

What's that? Yes, Lem is going to run with me.

He's a Republican! And I'm a Democrat! Well, what of that, I'd like to know.

What the shoe is on your own foot. It's something else again.

Reason Hill Dialogues. Number Two. Governor Foss—Am I a Republican candidate? Well, it's his weather.

I do think Lem is justified as a Republican in taking a place on the Democratic ticket? Why, I admire his courage right.

The free and equal Democratic machine has slain a batch of candidates for office as follows:

Governor—Walsh.
Lieutenant-Governor—Long.
Secretary of State—Doughan.
Etc.

But what about the direct primary?

Candidate Benton says: "It does seem unfortunate, now that I've brought the campaign to a point where success seems certain, to have another entry to divide the party at the primaries."

The primaries are undoubtedly a great institution, as long as there is only one candidate in each party. When there are two or more, it complicates things. You never know when the people are going to jump the track, and nominate the man THEY want, instead of the man they want.

There's a lot of control in the Progressive party, at the primaries, between Red, and Mr. Red and Charles Bird. The Democrats, likewise, are divided between Walsh and Walsh.

But the Republicans are all settled. Colonel Benton admits it. Gardner and Foss are just anonymous.

You had, Mr. Boston. Prepare to be shocked beyond expression when Governor Foss loses that statement Monday.

HOLD WOMAN ARRAIGNED FOR SLAYING SISTER

RUTLAND, Vt., Aug. 15.—Mrs. Eugene McCarthy, the mother of eight children, was arraigned today before Justice W. A. Tibbitt on the charge of slaying her sister, Miss Alice Kerrigan, in her home on August 8.

She entered a plea of not guilty and was held without bail for the September sitting of the grand jury.

Intending to enter the judge's word to the House of Correction in West Rutland, where Mrs. McCarthy has been imprisoned since her arrest Tuesday. Her bail court in the district court.

Only the judge and prisoner were present. Mrs. McCarthy was pale but composed. She wore the collar dress in which she was attending to her household duties when the police came for her three days ago.

Mrs. McCarthy's defense will be insanity. Neighbors and relatives say she had been acting oddly for months. She is thirty. Her sister was thirty-one. Miss Kerrigan was seized on a couch when Mrs. McCarthy, according to her alleged solution to the police, shot her through the head and concealed the body under two wash tubs and debris in the cellar.

The unexplained disappearance of Mrs. Kerrigan's named members of the family convinced Mrs. McCarthy so strongly that she confessed the tragedy. Since her conviction Mrs. McCarthy has given no trouble, but has sat quietly in her cell.

CARLSBAD CURFEW PUTS END TO TANGO AT TEN O'CLOCK

CARLSBAD, Aug. 15.—A medieval spirit has been aroused by decisive action against a society identified with bacchanal, tango and other modern entertainments, with Dr. Tyrnauer heading the list of physicians circulating a petition asking that the Racing Club at the Imperial Hotel be closed.

The Villa Splendide made the first move against the tango, interrupting a gathering at 10 o'clock and announcing that the persons present must leave. Six weeks is elapsing at this enforcement of the curfew law. The old law had been considered obsolete.

And also has recognized the right of Japan to adopt a measure similar to the California law.

First indication given in official circles it appears unlikely that Japan will adopt other things. It is said that what she desires is permanent friendly relations with the United States, and therefore she will not make a fundamental solution of the difficulty. The United States has no objection to offer, it is stated Japan probably will allow the matter to remain as a grievance.

The public feeling of indignation in the country, and the fact that it is favored by influential comments in the news papers, The Herald Tribune, which is often mentioned, serves as an object lesson to the United States the exposure of American missionaries from Korea, on the ground that they are undesirable aliens.

UNITED STATES READY TO PAY CASH TO JAPS

TOKYO, Aug. 15.—It is rumored here that the United States has indicated her readiness to favor in principle the payment of an indemnity to Japanese subjects who have been affected by the California alien land ownership legislation, and also has recognized the right of Japan to adopt a measure similar to the California law.

NEW YORK YACHT CLUB FLEET CRUISE DISBANDED TODAY

Jimmy Clabby After Middleweight Title

Hammond Boxer Now Seeking Matches on Pacific Coast: May Go to Australia

By JACK CONWAY.
JIMMY CLABBY, the Hammond, Ind., middleweight, is seeking matches on the Pacific Coast. If Clabby is unable to secure bouts in Vernon, or San Francisco, he may decide to make another trip to Australia.

Clabby is a big favorite in the land of the Southern cross. He has made a name in the Antipodes as the most skillful American boxer who has ever visited that country.

Promoter Jim Crockett, however, says Clabby is better off with either Roy Mahoney or Mike Paterson in San Francisco. Both of these men are good performers, but Clabby should not experience a great deal of difficulty in defeating either of them.

CLABBY IS SEEKING TITLE

CLABBY, by the way, is a candidate for the middleweight championship. There is no acknowledged leader in this leading division. Frank Klus is considered the best, but there are a number of men who have got an idea that they are capable of defeating the Pittsburgh man.

Clabby, Eddie McMorphy, Jack Dillon and Mike Gibbons are Klus' greatest rivals. McMorphy did some sterling work in the squared circle early in the time that he was engaged in that famous bout with Mike Gibbons in New York. Clabby, however, has not performed any too well and has been recently convicted of Clabby.

KLUS TYPICAL FIGHTER

KLUS is a typical fighter and one of the "classiest" performers in the business. The Pittsburgh man is not a very clever fighter, but is aggressive, and his hard work and sound technique make him a great deal of punishment and is as good as they make them. Klus is well known to Boston fans. Klus, as he has engaged in many hard-fought battles in this city.

DILLON GOOD PERFORMER

JACK DILLON would have the best chance of defeating Klus. Three men cashed in Indianapolis to Klus, and according to the press dispatches sent out from Indianapolis, Dillon had the best of the fight. Klus afterwards claimed he was injured (probably by the referee, when he asserts was motioned to see Dillon).

EDDIE MURPHY TRAINING

EDDIE MURPHY is a wise young man. The South Boston boxer has already started training for his bout with Jim Egan, which will probably be staged at the Atlas A. A. on September 2. Eddie Mack, manager of Egan, has already accepted terms for a bout with Murphy, but Murphy declared Tuesday night at the arena that he would sign with Egan in a few days for a "go" with his South Boston rival.

Murphy has kept in good condition since his bout with Gilbert Gallant. Eddie is a boxer who takes the best of care of himself and is always ready to fight on "weekend" notice. He evidently wants to be at his best when he meets Egan, and he would not start training at such an early date.

EAGLE IS NOT GOING TO ALLOW MURPHY TO SLEEP ON HIS FEET

EAGLE is not going to allow Murphy to sleep on his feet and assume that he will commence gunning work and light boxing today.

BROWN IS AFTER SHIBERT

MICKEY BROWN of Malden says he is anxious to secure another bout with Al Shibert of New Bedford. These two speedily entered into negotiations, and last Tuesday night and the corner was declared a draw after ten thrilling rounds of boxing. Brown had only a few days in which to train for the encounter, and believe he would be able to decisively defeat Shibert if he had more time in which to get into condition. It is our opinion that it takes a pretty classy performer to hold a fast and hard battle like Shibert even for ten sessions.

GALLANT PERFORMING WELL

JOHNNY GALLANT, the Chelsea heavyweight, has been making like a regular title champion lately. There are few New England heavies who can handle the Chelsea boy, as he proved when he felled Al Korbelt of Hingham in two rounds.

Big Four in Second Race for Bike Title

The greatest treat of the year is in store for the cycle fans tomorrow night at the Revere Beach Oval, when the second race for the middle distance championship of America will be run off with four of the best men in the country behind the meters and two of the best in the world. The race will be a real test of endurance, which will be on the card August 23.

Faces missing for some time will be in the lineup, prominent among them being Elmer Collier of Lynn, who has been away from Boston for several weeks. Experts believe that Jimmy Moran will be after Collier from the start, and he will be anxious to obliterate the Lynn star with his usual. Moran has been playing with less than the best of late and has been hurt by his sorrow that the long road is his wife.

Other starters will be Percy Lawrence of San Francisco and Morris Rodell of New York. Like Collier, they have been away from the beach for quite awhile and there is considerable speculation as to the showing that they will make. There will also be a special, main sprint race and a motorcycle contest.

Wimbledon Match Opens Ohio Shoot

CAMP PERRY, O., Aug. 15.—With the entry list for the Wimbledon Cup match today nearly done, which it will be before the (Great) Brits has ordered the contestants to be on the firing line at 7 o'clock, or an hour earlier than they expected, for the opening round of the shooting tournament.

In 1912, which was the banner year for the Wimbledon Cup match, there were 246 entries. This year 515 are entered for the event. The Cup has match 405 entries and the Hale Cup match 401 entries.

New Motor-Cycle Record

BRIGHTON BEACH, N. Y., Aug. 15.—A new record for street-rider miles was shot over the boards at the Brighton Beach Motorcycling, when Henry St. Yon and Charlie Davis of Brooklyn won the three-quarter century team race in 10 min. 10 sec. The former's time for the distance was 13 min. 47 sec.

SUCCESSFUL GO TO AUSTRALIA IS DISBANDED

By HARRY C. THOMAS.

The New York Yacht Club today disbanded at Marblehead, a cruise that has been the most successful of any in the history of the old yachting organization. The club in its port to port from the time it started a week ago, has had exceptional weather and exceptional racing. The members, who have pleasure craft as well as the racing sloop, seem to be coming around treacherously old Cape Cod. This year, however, a pretty good foot came around and without any mishap to speak of.

Special Open for "Fifties"

Today the Eastern Yacht Club held a special open race for the New York "fifties." This class of boats built this year by the New York Yacht Club members has interested a lot of the Massachusetts fishermen and it is a safe prediction that some of the same open boats will be seen racing around Marblehead Bay next summer.

Failure at 18th Hole Causes Loss of Title

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Failure to get down a 15-foot putt for 8 on the 18th hole prevented Thomas L. McNamara, the Boston homebred, from again winning the Metropolitan open golf championship over the Halloway links near Garden City.

American Trials Saturday

The American trials start Saturday at 11 o'clock with two races a day. The three winners that will compose the American team have been picked. It will be no mean job for the committee of the Boston Yacht Club to have three and some good hard racing will have to result before the 1900.

McDougall Breaks Bike Mark

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 15.—Donald McDougall, the New York Yacht Club member, made a new amateur world record at the Newark Velodrome, when he won the 100-mile race in 1 hour 10 min. 15 sec. The time was set by the 17-1/2 year old Frank L. Kramer who the quarter mile national professional championing mark.

'Chummy' Gray, Old Ball Player, Dead

ROCKLAND, Me., Aug. 15.—George F. Gray, known in baseball circles of other years as "Chummy" Gray, a pitcher in the New England League about twenty years ago, died yesterday in Rockland. He was born in the Eastern League championship in the late thirties. Later he pitched for short periods in Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Hartford and Providence. He leaves one son.

KID-BOY MAY GET BROWN'S PITCHER DUE FOR MINORS

TINKER DENIES HE WILL QUIT AS REDS LEADER

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—"Tom" Tinker, manager of the Cincinnati team, which is playing in this city, when asked regarding rumors that he intended to resign because of criticism over the standing of the team in the race for the pennant, replied he would not quit "under fire." He admitted that there was some friction between himself and others connected with the management. Tinker is quoted as saying that the condition of his team is bad and that possibilities for improving are worse. He blames President Herrmann for the dropping of a number of players who, while worthless to the club as players, would have been invaluable in trades that might be made.

"How can I obtain good players," said Tinker, "when I have no players to offer? The minor league officials will not give up a player nowadays unless his place is filled to some extent by another player. Mr. Herrmann has coddled the team of all seasons material and I am up against a stone wall. I make this statement simply to let the public know the situation stands."

"Mr. Herrmann is a fair fellow and a good sportsman, but has not seen fit to do as McEwen and Mark do, that is, to hold a few men in reserve for trades." In a Cincinnati dispatch, Herrmann said:

"I believe Tinker has been misquoted to some extent, but if he has not, he is surprised, to say the least. He has been consulted in every trade or sale, and in two cases where men were allowed to go to the minors it was impossible to get an option on them for resale owing to the rule that prevents a player from being traded by one owner more than once a year. You can see, therefore, that Tinker is not so far from the truth. Tinker will be here next year as usual."

wedding itself or the manner in which

I proposed to have it conducted."

"Will you give us the details of that interview?"

"As nearly as I can, sir. It was such a one as you would expect from a delivery important step and was not quite

"And what was the manner of your marriage?"

"It was affectionate on my part, but

I am free to say there was some contrary to it. With all my efforts to conceal my feelings, she was too susceptive, and she was too much of a woman not to show it. But I never expected more than a little complai-

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Over two hundred miles out under the ocean, three thousand men are working a great tunnel out under the Atlantic, the most gigantic engineering scheme ever conceived by the hand of man. Rives,

the chief engineer of the new work, has just arrived on the scene, after a trip from shore to a tunnel train running over a hundred miles an hour.

Suddenly there is an explosion and men and machinery are swept back ward by a tremendous blast. Then follows a series of horrors. Rives and a few survivors scramble on foot away from the disaster.

They come to a small sub-station where supplies had been stored and near the bottom open with their bare hands. Rives warns them loudly against the emergency lamp, so they pull their faces and just themselves with provisions that none of them can eat. Then the crazy procession reels on into the darkness, and after hours they come into the view of faul lights at main station No. 4.

A train is standing there, but just as the leaders of the survivors reach the steps of the car, the train slides out into the tunnel and leaves them screaming and crying and running in the dark.

The story then goes back to the beginning of the great project. A score of financiers are gathered on the roof of the fifty-story Hotel

Atlantic, called together by the name of Lloyd, the master man of money. There, introduced by Rives,

McKendree Allen, the inventor, tells them of his great plan to tunnel the Atlantic. "My tunnel," he says, "is going to be 3,000 miles long."

After the meeting Allen tells Rives that he is going to make him chief engineer of the tunnel and let him in on a plan to make millions by buying up real estate at the sites of the tunnel entrances. The tunnel scheme creates the greatest excitement in the financial world.

The tunnel city is built on the Jersey plains, and work is pushed at top speed. Twenty thousand men, with great dredgers, push down into the bowels of the earth. In Bermond, Fayal, at Valence and on a great plain beyond London. Allen is the moving spirit everywhere. He is almost absent at his home in Tunis city, and his wife tells Rives how dearly she is hurt.

The biggest man in the New York

Real Estate Exchange comes to Tunnel City and offers him a down on the price at which he is holding his land, but to vain.

Ethel Lloyd, daughter of the great financier, who made the building of the tunnel possible, comes to

Tunnel City and asks Mr. Allen

how he can get on with the story.
